

Amiyah Sade' Cromedy-Bell

I chose North Carolina Central University, because upon walking on the campus it immediately felt like home. My major will be Business Administration, with a minor in Dance. The goal is to be amongst like-minded people, who would help and encourage me just as I do the same for them.

In the future, I want to be amongst the next group of African American leaders to find their voice, while being embraced by my culture at the same time. I want to take advantage of all opportunities from interning to studying abroad. North Carolina Central University has a great reputation, and I hope to be accepted into their Law School in a few years. I have yet to determine exactly what field of Law I plan to pursue; however, by the end of my Senior year I expect to be more self-confident, self-aware, and a powerhouse that will be ready for any and everything that the world has to offer.

Although I am a senior in high school, I have been embraced by the local Alumni Chapter. Also, I have had multiple interactions with alumni, who have congratulated me for choosing North Carolina Central University and offered very encouraging words. This in itself further lets me know that an Historically Black University is not only an institution of learning, but they really are a family. I am excited to be joining the Eagle family. Eagle Pride Amplified!
